

WARREN ZIMMERMANN

spent thirty-three years as an officer in the U.S. Foreign Service, serving in France, Austria, Spain, Switzerland, Venezuela, the Soviet Union, and as our last ambassador to Yugoslavia. He has taught at Columbia and Johns Hopkins Universities and is the author of Origins of a Catastrophe: Yugoslavia and Its Destroyers, which won the American Academy of Diplomacy Book Award in 1997. His work has appeared in The New York Review of Books, Newsweek, The National Interest, and national newspapers. He and his wife live in the Washington, D.C., area.

Jacket design by Laura Shaw

Jacket photographs: (from left) John Hay, c. 1902; Alfred Thayer Mahan, c. 1904; Theodore Roosevelt, c. 1903; Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, c. 1916; Elihu Root, c. 1905. Courtesy of Library of Congress, Prints and Photographs Division. Eagle illustration, 1898, from The Spanish American War in Cartoons, courtesy of Library of Congress, Prints and Photographs Division. Hand-tinting of eagle illustration by Elizabeth Shaw Cornaro

Author photograph by Didi Cutler

FARRAR, STRAUS AND GIROUX